Phase One Changes License Policy for Capture One DSLR

Copenhagen, Denmark, February 24, 2003: On March 1st Phase One® releases a new and improved license policy for Capture One DSLR that provides unlimited use of the software independent of hardware platforms (Windows and Mac). This means that the software can be reinstalled as often as the user chooses. The Capture One DSLR software license is maintained as a single user license to be used by a registered user only.

Phase One's CEO, Henrik Håkonsson remarks: "Listening to the feedback from our customer base and the forum discussions on leading websites have convinced us that the current software license policy for Capture One DSLR is inadequate. Obviously, it has never been the intention of Phase One to limit the use of the software. We are confident that none of our current DSLR users have been limited by the previous license policy (i.e. 3 installations per license); however, in order to avoid any future confusion we have decided to remove the limitations. We are well aware that this will decrease the effectiveness of our copy protection efforts".

Henrik Håkonsson continues: "We believe that by making these changes we have once again showed our existing users and potential customers that we take feedback from our users very seriously and that suggestions that will improve the perceived quality of the Capture One DSLR software solution are implemented as soon as possible".
